

AFOSR 68-1406

AD 670999

AN ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHY
ON PRISONER INTERROGATION, COMPLIANCE AND RESISTANCE

Submitted to:

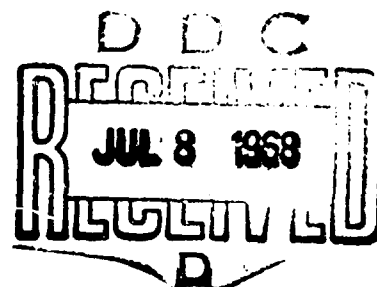

The Office of Scientific Research
United States Air Force

This research was supported by the Behavioral Sciences Division, AFOSR, SRLB

under Contract/Grant AF 49(638)-1344

BUREAU OF SOCIAL SCIENCE RESEARCH, INC.
1424 Sixteenth Street, N. W.
Washington, D. C. 20036

August 1963

1. This document has been approved for public release and sale; its distribution is unlimited.

Adler, H. G. Ideas toward a sociology of the concentration camp.
Amer. J. Sociol., 1958, 63, 513-522.

Suggests lines of research.

Alleg, H. The question. New York: George Braziller, 1958.

A Communist editor's allegations regarding brutal interrogation practices against him by paratroopers in Algeria. Torture, drugs and psychological pressures figure in this widely-publicized account.

Andrews, M. Psychological warfare in the Mexican War. In W. E. Daughtery & M. Janowitz (Eds.) A psychological warfare casebook. Baltimore: Operations Research Office, Johns Hopkins Univ., 1958, 72-73 Tech. Memo. ORO-T-360.

Describes defection of Irish Americans to Mexico.

Barag, G. Belated reactions in former concentration camp inmates.
Harejuah, 1956, 50, 228-229.

Barnett, A. D. Imprisonment of the mind. New York: American Universities Field Staff, 1955.

On thought reform in Red China.

Barnett, A. D. The United States and the Far East. New York: Columbia Univ. Press, 1956.

Recent analysis of thought reform in Mainland China and its effects.

Bauer, R. A. Arrest in the Soviet Union. Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama: Human Resources Research Institute, 1955. HRR I Research Memorandum No. 30.

The role and prevalence of political arrests in the Soviet Union as revealed by analysis of interviews with former Soviet Citizens.

Bauer, R. A. Brainwashing: Psychology or demonology? J. soc. Issues, 1957, 13 (3), 41-47.

Argues that scientific psychology is not basis of "brainwasher's" procedure.

Bauer, R. A., & Schein, E. H. Introduction to special issue on "brainwashing." J. soc. Issues, 1957, 13 (3), 3-4.

Argues that scientific psychology is not basis of "brain-washer's" procedure.

Bauer, R. A. N + 1 ways not to run a railroad. American Psychologist Vol. 15, 1960, 650-655:

Debunks brainwashing.

Becker, K. I met a traveller: The triumph of Father Phillips. New York: Farrar, Strauss, & Cudahy, 1958.

First-hand account of imprisonment of Jesuit priest in Shanghai; excellent case to study the bases of resistance to coercive persuasion.

Berle, A. A., Jr. Legal background of Communist methods of Interrogation and indoctrination. Bull. N.Y. Acad. Med., 1957, 33, 645-653.

Biderman, A. D. Communist attempts to elicit false confessions from Air Force prisoners of war. Bull. N.Y. Acad. Med., 1957, 33, 616-625.

A distinction between "eliciting compliance" and "shaping compliance" is used in this analysis of interviews with POW survivors.

Biderman, A. D. Communist techniques of coercive interrogation. Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.: Air Force Personnel & Training Research Center, Dec., 1956. AFPTRC Development Report TN-56-132.

An analysis of coercive tactics and their psychological effects. Seeks basis for improved survival training.

Biderman, A. D. Effects of Communist indoctrination attempts: Some comments based on an Air Force prisoner-of-war study. Soc. Probs., 1959, 6, 304-313.

Suggests that a general "anti-Ideological" attitude may account for the high resistance of American prisoners in Korea to Communist indoctrination attempts.

Biderman, A. D. March to calumny: The story of American POWs in the Korean War. New York: Macmillan, 1963.

A book to fill the gaps in reporting of the POW episode by social scientists. Challenges some common misinformation and misinterpretation.

Biderman, A. D. The objectives of training for the event of capture. Air Force Personnel and Training Research Center, Intelligence Methods Branch, Jan. 5, 1956, unpublished manuscript.

Biderman, A. D. Social psychological needs and "involuntary" behavior as illustrated by compliance in interrogation. Sociometry, June, 1960, 23(2), 120-147.

Analysis of the interpersonal forces which operate in the interrogation situation.

Biderman, A. D., Herman, L. M., & Howard, H. Reading materials in Chinese Communist indoctrination attempts against American prisoners of war. Lib. Quart., 1958, 28 (3), 187-193.

A listing of titles made available to U. S. prisoners in Korea by the Communist captor, with a brief discussion of the list and POW's reactions.

Biderman, A. D. & Monroe, J. L. Reactions to the Korean POW episode. A paper read at the Annual Convention of the Amer. Psychol. Ass., Washington, Sept., 1958.

A content analysis of N.Y. Times Index of changes in emphasis from 1953-1958 in news stories about U. S. Korean War repatriates.

Biderman, A. D. & Zimmer, H. The manipulation of human behavior. New York: Wiley, 1960.

Blair, C., Jr. Beyond courage. New York: David McKay, 1955.

Accounts of three Air Force officers who escaped from behind enemy lines during the Korean War. Includes experiences of 1st Lt. Shadduck who was a prisoner of war in N. Korea for 34 days before his unaided escape.

Bohn, H. Die Letzten. Koln: Marcus Verlag, 1957.

Last German prisoners repatriated from Russia.

Bone, Edith. Seven years solitary. New York: Harcourt, Brace, 1957.

A physician, and former Communist journalist describes her adaptations as a political prisoner in Communist Hungary.

Bonnichon, A. Cell 33.

First-hand account of life in the Shanghai prison.

Brainwashing: A guide to the literature. Report from the Society for the Investigation of Human Ecology, Forest Hills, N.Y., 1960.

Annotated bibliography, over 100 titles.

Bull, G. T. When iron gates yield. London: Hodder & Stoughton, 1955; Chicago: Moody Press, 1955.

First-hand account of Evangelist imprisoned by the Chinese Communists after being caught in Tibet; good description of psychological pressures in coercive persuasion.

Claudius, W. A Soviet political isolator. Oxford: St. Antony's College, 1956. (St. Antony's papers on Soviet affairs.)

Memoir on the NKVD.

Crosbie, P. Three winters cold. Dublin: Browne & Nolan, 1955.

Memoir of a civilian Australian chaplain interned in the Korean War.

de Beauvoir, Simone. Djamila Boupapha. New York: Macmillan, 1962.

Biography of an Algerian woman tortured by the French in the Algerian War for independence. She resisted her treatment and is now hailed as a revolutionary heroine in the Arab world, and made a ceremonial visit to Peking.

de Beauvoir, Simone. The long march. Trans. by Austryn Wainhouse. New York: World Publ. Co., 1958.

Describes Chinese Communist retreat to Yanan.

Dana, H. J. & Barnett, C. C. "The emotional stress meter." In V. A. Leonard, (Ed.) Academy Lectures on Lie Detection Vol. I. Springfield, Ill.: Charles C Thomas, 1957. Pp. 73-83.

Discussion of limitations of present equipment.

Dana, H. J. It is time to improve the Polygraph: a progress report on polygraph research and development. V. A. Leonard, (Ed.) Academy Lectures on Lie Detection Vol. II. Springfield, Ill.: Charles C Thomas, 1958. Pp. 84-94.

Deane, P. I was a captive in Korea. New York: W. W. Norton & Co., 1953.

Well-written account of internment and brainwashing in N. Korea by a British newsman who had spent 18 months as a POW.

Dick, C. POW. London: Brown, Watson, 1958.

Memoir of a British POW in Germany in World War II.

Dowe, Lt. R. M. "A prisoner can profit." Army Information Digest, 9 Jun 1954, 41-47.

Author, a POW of the Communists for 33 months during the Korean War, tells of enemy indoctrination methods and the means he learned to resist them.

Eysenck, H. J. The dynamics of anxiety and hysteria. New York: Praeger, 1957.

Farber, I. E., Harlow, H. F., & West, L. J. Brainwashing, conditioning and DDD (debility, dependency and dread). Sociometry, 1957, 20, 271-285.

Theoretical analysis of treatment of POWs in Korea from standpoint of learning theory.

Festinger, L. A theory of cognitive dissonance. Evanston, Ill.: Row, Peterson Co., 1957.

Theory of attitude change.

Fisher, H. E. (As told to Clay Blair Jr.) My care as a prisoner was "different." Life, 1955 38 (26) 146-160.

Air Force captain detained in china for border violation during the Korean War.

Ford, R. Wind between the worlds. New York: David McKay, 1957.

Excellent first-hand account by British civilian of his imprisonment and reform at the hands of the Chinese Communists.

Foreman, P. B. "Buchenwald" and modern POW policy. Soc. Forces, 1959, 37, 289-297.

Freedman, L. T. Truth drugs. Scientific American, 1960, 202, 145-154.

Gallery, D. U. We can baffle the brainwashers. Sat. Eve. P., Jan. 22, 1955, pp. 20-94.

A much discussed proposal by an American admiral that military personnel be instructed to "confess" to anything if pressed by "brainwashers;" the effects of the "confessions" to be eliminated by wide publicity to this policy.

Gardner, Edith R. Coerced confessions of prisoners of war. (How is the nation to cope with false confessions which have been coerced?) Geo. Wash. law Rev., 1956, 24, 528-563.

Geneva Convention Relative to the Treatment of Prisoners of War of August 12, 1949, Geneva Conventions of August 12, 1949 for the Protection of War Victims, Article 17, p. 91. Photographic reproduction: Department of State Publication 3938. Washington: Gov. Prin. Off., 1950.

Georgetown University Medical Center. A collection of critical reviews of some experimental literature pertinent to the interrogation process. December, 1957.

Georgetown University Medical Center. Power and resistance in interrogation, December, 1957.

Gerlach, H. Die verratene Armee. Munich: Nymphenburger Verlaghandlung, 1957.

Goffman, E. Aspects of total institutions. Paper delivered at Psychiatry Dept. Seminar, Georgetown University Hospital, April, 1957.

Concludes that total institutions require changes in behavior which are a reflection of public compliance rather than basic personality or attitude changes.

Gollwitzer, H. (Ed.) Und bringen ihre Garben. Stuttgart: Krevz Verlag, 1957.

A collection of literary work by German prisoners of the Soviets.

Great Britain, Ministry of Defence. Treatment of British prisoners of war in Korea. London: H.M.S.O., 1955.

A "white paper."

Group for the Advancement of Psychiatry. Factors used to increase the susceptibility of individuals to forceful indoctrination: Observations and experiments. New York: GAP Publications Office, Dec., 1956. GAP Symposium No. 3.

Discussion of isolation, solitary confinement, sleep deprivation, brain injury, semi-starvation, and pain as they contribute to forceful indoctrination.

Group for the Advancement of Psychiatry. Methods of forceful indoctrination: Observations and interviews. New York: GAP Publications Office, July, 1957. GAP Symposium No. 4.

Discussion of psychiatric aspects of Chinese Communist thought reform and reactions of American Army and Air Force POWs.

Guillain, R. 600 million Chinese. New York: Criterion Books, 1957.

General description of China by a journalist who visited there in 1956.

Gullimaid, (Ed.) La Chine de la douceur. Paris: L'air du Temps, 1960

Hacker, A. Dostoevsky's disciples: Man and sheep in political theory. J. Politics, 1955, 18, 590-613.

A comparison of Dostoevsky's "The legend of the Grand Inquisitor," Huxley's Brave new world, and Skinner's Walden Two as portrayed of societies with complete disregard for the autonomy of the individual and societies which use mass conditioning to achieve their ends. A comment on the influence of these models on society.

Haring, J. Preface to special issue on "brainwashing." J. Soc. Issues, 1957, 13 (3), 1-2.

Points to fundamental question posed for psychology by accounts of the collaboration elicited by Communists from their prisoners.

Henderson, B. A. Communist indoctrination methods. Mil. Rev., 1955, 35, (8), 27-38.

Discussion of "brainwashing" techniques and social background of converts to Communism through brainwashing.

Hinkle, L. E., Jr. In Group for the Advancement of Psychiatry. Methods of forceful indoctrination: Observations and Interviews. New York: GAP Publications Office, July, 1957, GAP Symposium No. 4. Pp. 285-292.

Briefer papers of longer study.

Hinkle, L. E., Jr. The physiologic state of the interrogation subject as it affects brain function. In A. D. Biderman & H. Zimmer (Eds.) Tech. Rept. of Study SR 177-D. Washington, D. C. Bur. Soc. Sci. Res., 1959.

Hinkle, L. W., Jr., & Wolff, H. G. Communist interrogation and indoctrination of "enemies of the state," analysis of methods used by the Communist state police. (A special report.) A.M.A Arch. Neurol. & Psychiat., 1956, 76, 115-174.

Excellent and comprehensive discussion and analysis of Soviet and Chinese Communist methods of interrogation and indoctrination.

Hinkle, L. E., Jr., & Wolff, H. G. The methods of interrogation and indoctrination used by communist state police. Bull. N.Y. Acad. Med., 1957, 33, 600-615.

Briefer papers of longer study.

Holmes, N. D. The degree of objectivity in chart interpretation. In V. A. Leonard (Ed.) Academy Lectures on Lie Detection Vol. II. Springfield, Ill.: Charles C Thomas, 1958. Pp. 71-83.

Holt, R. R. "Brainwashing" and its implications for mental health. New York Univ., Res. Cent. for Ment. Health, unpublished.

Rejects thesis that "brainwashing" makes use of technique of conditioned reflex. "Brainwashing" seeks to reduce an adult to a child and to confuse the individual's sense of reality.

Holzappel, W. Erfahrungen aus sowjet gefangenschaft, Deutsches Pfarrerblatt, Essen: 1956, 25, 35-39.

Horia, Vintila. Spanische Russlandheimkehrer, Zeitschrift fur Geopolitik, March 1955.

Horowitz, M. W. The psychology of confession. J. crim. Law, Criminol. and police Sci., 1956, 47, 197-204.

Discussion of psychological situation of persons who voluntarily confess to acts which they committed.

Human Organization Editorial. "Brainwashing" and reliability. Hum. Organ., 1955, 13 (4), 4.

Urges the need for objective criteria by which to measure methods of studying social phenomena. Without these criteria, the "facts" of social phenomena can be made to fit theories of what should be rather than what actually exists.

Human Organization Editorial. "Brainwashing" and the teaching process. Hum.Organ., 1955, 13 (4), 3-4.

Discussion of the similarity between "brainwashing" and the relationship of case supervisor to student, urging that more empiricism be used in the behavioral sciences.

Hunter, E. Brainwashing in Red China. New York: Vanguard, 1953.

General description of thought reform by a journalist basing his account on the stories of Chinese defecting from the mainland after the take-over: a book that first gave currency in the U. S. to the term "brainwashing."

Hunter, E. Brainwashing; the story of men who defied it. New York: Farrar, Strauss & Cudahy, 1956.

Analysis by a journalist of POWs and others who stated that they had been able to resist "brainwashing."

Hunter, E. The story of Mary Liu. New York: Farrar, Strauss, & Cudahy, 1957.

The chronicle, by a journalist, of the "brainwashing" processes used on an editor or a missionary magazine in the early 1950's.

Huxley, A. Brave new world revisited. New York: Harper's, 1958.

A chapter on "brainwashing" in this general discussion of "threats to freedom" regards it as based on Pavlovian and other physiological experimentation.

Huxley, A. Drugs that shape men's minds. In R. Thruelson & J. Kobler (Eds.), Adventures of the mind. New York: Knopf, 1959.

Social fascination with drugs is compared with religious transcendentalism. A whole society dulling unpleasantness would be fair game for totalitarianism.

India-China Border Dispute. USIA Documents File. New York Times Nov. 18, 1959; Dec. 15, 1959, April 3, 1963. Washington Post Dec. 21, 1962.

Outlines Indian protests of Chinese handling of about 3,300 prisoners. They report continuous interrogations, confinement in cold, damp, holes in the ground, and pressure to sign statements and pose for pictures.

Israeli Treatment of Egyptian prisoners in war of 1956. New York Times Jan. 28, 1957. Jan 25, 1957; Dec. 17 & 19, 1956; Nov. 19, 1956; July 21, 1956.

Hundreds of Egyptian officers and nco's sent on tours of Israel accompanied by guards and civilian volunteers.

Jackman, N. R. Collective protest in relocation centers. Berkeley: Univ. of Calif. unpublished Ph.D. dissertation, 1955.

Jackman, N. R. Survival in the concentration camp. Human Org., 1958, 17 (2), 23-26.

Jordan, H. You, too, would confess. Argosy, 1957, 15, 57-63.

A good illustration of a popular article on the power of Communist confession-extortion techniques.

Kennedy, A. The scientific lessons of interrogation. Proceedings of the Royal Inst. of Great Britain, 1960, 170, 93-113. Reviewed in the Washington Post Mar. 6, 1959, Section E.

Discusses application for treatment of old people by techniques included in the process known popularly as "brainwashing."

Khokhlov, N. In the name of conscience. Trans. by Emily Kingsberry. New York: David McKay, 1959.

Kinhead, E. Have we let our sons down? McCall's, 1959, 49, 23-81.

Weaknesses in American institutions that may have caused misconduct of Americans in Korean captivity.

Kinhead, E. In every war but one. New York: Norton, 1959.

Thesis is that compliance of U. S. prisoners of the Communists in Korea is traceable to defects in American civilian and military institutions, rather than effects of "brainwashing."

Kinhead, E. A reporter at large: The study of something new in history. The New Yorker, 1957, 25, 102-153.

An earlier version of book.

Kinne, D. G. The wooden boxes. London: Frederick Muller, 1955.

An autobiographical account by a British "other rank" as a POW in Korea.

Kubis, J. Experimental and statistical factors in the diagnosis of consciously suppressed affective experience. J. Clin. Psychol., January 1950, 6 (1), 12-16.

Concludes that "work in lie detection demonstrates the possibility of maximizing the objectification of our clinical intuitions through the rigorous application of experimental controls. . . If the instrument or technique is not forced to give a multi-dimensional clinical decision in vague multi-dimensional language."

Kubis, J. Instrumental, chemical, and psychological aids in the interrogation of witnesses. J. Soc. Issues, 1957, 13 (2), 40-49.

Discusses uses of lie detectors, "truth drugs," and hypnosis in evaluation of questionable testimony. Emphasizes testimony of witnesses who have no conscious intent to lie.

Kubis, J. Lie detection: Recent developments and persistent problems. Transactions of the New York Academy of Sciences, November, 1953, 16 (1), 34-38.

Emphasizes the judgment of the operator in interpreting lie detector machine results.

Kubis, J. Studies in lie detection, computer feasibility considerations. Fordham University AF-30(602)2270 Project #5534. Rome Air Devel. Center Air Force Systems Command USAF, Griffiss Air Force Base, New York.

Describes experimental work.

Lamott, K. Memoirs of a brainwasher. Harpers Magazine, 1956, 212, 73-76.

A former American military intelligence interrogator describes thorough compliance of Japanese POWs with American captors.

Levy, S. S. Hypnosis and the legal immutability. J. crim. Law Criminol., 1955, 46, 333-346.

Describes murder cases in which the courts would not accept confessions nor favorable evidence presumably obtained by hypnosis.

Leviere, A. H. For the brainwashed: Pity or punishment. New York Times Magazine, Aug. 14, 1955, 12+.

A discussion of the post-Korean War controversy on POW policy.

Lewis, G. C. & Mewha, J. History of prisoner of war utilization by the United States Army 1776-1945. Washington; 1955. Dept. of Army Pamphlet, No. 20-213.

Lifton, R. J. Chinese communist "thought reform": Confession and re-education of western civilians. Bull. N.Y. Acad. Med., 1957, 33, 626-644.

Lifton, R. J. Home by ship; reaction patterns of American prisoners of war repatriated from North Korea. Amer J. Psychiat., 1954, 110, 732-739.

Lifton, R. J. Psychiatric aspects of thought reform. In Group for the Advancement of Psychiatry. Methods of forceful indoctrination: Observations and interviews. New York: GAP Publications Office, July, 1957, GAP Symposium No. 4, pp. 234-249.

Lifton, R. J. Thought reform of Chinese intellectuals, a psychiatric evaluation. J. Asian Stud., 1956, 16 (1), 75-88; J. soc. Issues, 1957, 13 (3), 5-20.

Excellent description and psychiatric analysis of thought reform of Chinese intellectuals.

Lifton, R. J. Thought reform of Western civilians in Chinese Communist prisons. Psychiatry, 1956, 19, 173-195.

Excellent description and psychiatric analysis of thought reform of Western prisoners.

Lifton, R. J. Thought reform of Western civilian in Chinese Communist prisons. Washington: Walter Reed Army Institute of Research, Walter Reed Army Medical Center, May 1956.

Lifton, R. J. Thought reform and the psychology of totalism: A study of "brainwashing" in China. New York: Norton, 1961

Reviews eleven cases of Chinese refugees who fled China after experience with thought reform.

Lilly, J. C. In Illustrative strategies for research on psychopathology in mental health. Group for the Advancement of Psychiatry, Symposium No. 2, New York: GAP Publications, 1956, 13-20.

Discussion of theoretical relevance of other medical and psychiatric studies to coercive persuasion.

Lilly, J. C. Mental effects of reduction of ordinary levels of physical stimuli on intact, healthy persons. Psychiat. Res. Rep. Amer. Psychiat. Ass., 1956, 5, 1-28.

Ma captivite chez les viets. Message des Forces d'Armée, 1957. #21 and 22.

Marshall, S.L.A. Review of E. Kindead's In every war but one, in New York Times Book Review, Feb. 22, 1959.

Martino, J. & Weyl, N. I was Castro's prisoner. New York: Devin-Adair Co., 1963.

Biography of man imprisoned in Cuba. Describes trials of Bay of Pigs captives, prisoner experiences, including brief report on interrogation and indoctrination.

Mathews, R. F. No rice for rebels. London: Bodley Head, 1956.

Autobiographical account by a former prisoner of the Chinese Communists.

Mayer, W. E. Why did so many GI captives cave in? U. S. News and World Report, 1956, 38, 56-62.

On Korean War POW's.

McHugh, L. C. Pavlov brainwashing and foreign policy. America, Sept. 10, 1960, 103, 612-614.

Meerloo, J.A.M. Brainwashing and mentocide. In Stein, Vldich and White. Identity and anxiety. Glencoe, Ill.: Free Press, 1960.

Meerloo, J.A.M. La signification du brainwashing et du menticide en psychiatrie. Med. & Hygiene (Geneva) 1957, 15, 377.

Meerloo, J.A.M. Medication into submission; the danger of therapeutic coercion. J. nerv. ment. Dis., 1955, 122, 353-360.

Meerloo, J.A.M. Psychiatric ecology. J. nerv. ment. Dis., 1959, 127.

Meerloo, J.A.M. The rape of the mind. New York: World, 1956.

A bibliographical index. Author holds that everyone regardless of counterindoctrination, can be brought to a breaking point. States that conviction gives moral power and recommends education with emphasis on thought to produce this.

Meerloo, J.A.M. Thought control. The Encyclopedia Americana. Amer. Corp. 1958.

Meltzer, M. Solitary confinement. In Group for the Advancement of Psychiatry. Factors used to increase the susceptibility of individuals to forceful indoctrination: Observations and experiments. New York: GAP Publications Office, Dec., 1956. GAP Symposium No. 3. Pp. 96-103.

Observations in domestic penal institutions are extrapolated to bear on the issue of forceful indoctrination.

Meyers, S. M. The role of traditional orientations toward social relations in Chinese responses to Communist military-political control. Washington: HumRRO, Geo. Wash. Univ., Nov, 1958.

Seeks to give understanding to observed conformity of Chinese to Communist military and political control in terms of assumptions about traditional orientation towards social relations.

Meyers, S. M., & Bradbury, W. C. The political behavior of Korean and Chinese prisoners of war in the Korean conflict: A historical analysis. Washington: HumRRO, Geo. Wash. Univ., 1958.

The conflict of organized groups of pro-and anti-communist prisoners of war in American camps is analyzed.

Miller, W. M. Valley of the shadow. New York: David McKay, 1955.

The story of an Air Force officer who escaped after a short period of captivity in North Korea.

Miller, J. G. Brainwashing: Present and future. J. Soc. Issues, 1957, 13 (3), 48-55.

Discussed possible applications of science to compel the compliance of a prisoner and concludes that death or induced amnesia are only feasible defenses.

Misconduct in the prison camp: A survey of the law and an analysis of the Korean cases. A Student Note. Columbia law Rev., 1956, 56, 709-794.

Most thorough legal discussion of the problem of prisoner collaboration.

Moloney, J. C. Psychic self-abandon and extortion of confessions.
Int. J. Psychoanal., 1955, 36, 53-60.

A psychoanalytic theory of the victim's psychology in "confession" extortion.

Monroe, J. L. review of E. Kindead's In every war but one, in Air Force, June, 1959.

Murray, J. C. Singing is for the birds. Army Combat Forces J.
1955, 6 (1), 15-21.

Palocz-Horvath, G. The undefeated. New York: Little, Brown, 1959.

An anti-regime Hungarian describes his imprisonment.

Pajnez, Y. Les Viet Nino et la guerre psychologique. Paris:
Edition de la Colombe, 1955.

Pasley, Virginia. Twenty-one stayed: The story of the American GI's who chose Communist China--who they were and why they stayed. New York: Farrar, Strauss, & Cudahy, 1955.

A reporter interviewed family and friends of the American VNR's to determine what clues to their defection could be found in their background.

Pate, L. W., & Cutler, B. F. Reactionary: Story of Sergeant Pate's resistance to brainwashing when a prisoner of the Chinese Communist. New York: Harper's, 1956.

Pear, T. H. The moulding of modern man: A psychologist's review of information, persuasion and mental coercion today. London: Allen & Unwin, 1961.

Peters, W. W. More on our POW's The Reporter, 1959, 20 (5), 38-39.

"Debunking" of Kindead.

Peters, W. W. When the Army debunks the Army: A legend of the Korean War. Encounter, July 1960, 15, 77-79.

Thesis is that the extent and seriousness of collaboration of American POWs with the Communist Chinese has been exaggerated by vindictive U. S. Army officials.

Pfister-Ammende, Maria. The symptomatology, treatment, and prognosis in mentally ill refugees and repatriates in Switzerland, in H.B.M. Murphy, et al. Flight and resettlement. Paris: UNESCO, 1955. Pp. 147-172.

POW collaboration charges exploded. Army-Navy-Air Force Register, 1960, 81 (4181), 9-10.

Maintains that extent and seriousness of the collaboration of American prisoners in Korea has been highly exaggerated in many published discussions.

Poynton, O. Some observations on the psychological and psychiatric problems encountered in a Singapore prison camp. Med. S. Australia, 1947, 2, 501-509.

Pritchard, S. W. Communist brainwashing techniques. Amer. Mercury, Sept. 1959, 89, 141-142.

Prugh, G. S., Jr. The Code of Conduct for members of the Armed Forces. Columbia law Rev., 1956, 56, 686-687.

Describes the Code and considerations leading to its promulgation.

Prugh, G. S., Jr. Justice for all RECAP-K's. The Army Combat Forces J., 1955, 6(4), 15-26.

Describes procedure used to investigate conduct of repatriated American soldiers.

Prugh, G. S., Jr. Prisoners at war: The POW battleground. Dickenson law Rev., 1956, 60, 123-138.

Discusses changes in doctrine regarding status of POWs through history and questions wisdom of abandoning "quarantine" doctrine for one which obligates the POW to remain "at war."

Prugh, G. S., Jr. Some legal problems regarding POWs and the Code undated mimeographed, 3 pp.

Concludes that the U. S. Military Code references to conduct in POW status are directory, not mandatory; that they do not intend to contravene the Geneva Convention, or existing civil and military law governing American servicemen; and that the Code affirms the Army's position in the REKAP-K program for Korean War POWs.

Pye, L. Guerilla communism in Malaya. Princeton: Princeton Univ. Press, 1956.

Excellent description of Communist operations in Malaya.

Reiners, E. O. Soviet indoctrination of German war prisoners 1941-1956. Cambridge: Center for Internat. Studies, Mass. Institute of Technology, unpublished.

A detailed study.

Rickett, W. A., & Rickett, Adele. Prisoners of liberation. New York: Cameron Associates, 1957.

Excellent first-hand account of imprisonment and successful reform of two American students imprisoned in Peking.

Rigney, H. W. Four years in Red hell. Chicago: Regnery, 1956.

First-hand account by priest (rector of Fu Jen University) of imprisonment in Peking.

Rogge, O. J. Why men confess. New York: Thos. Nelson & Sons, 1959.

A civil libertarian attorney discusses "brainwashing" and other confession phenomena in terms of the "psychological compulsion to confess" and a distinction between "inquisitorial" and "accusatorial" legal inquiry.

Ruff, L. The brain-washing machine. London: Hale, 1959.

Sander, H. J. & Biderman, A. D. Recommendations of returned USAF Prisoners of War on resisting enemy interrogation. Lackland Air Force Base, Texas: Air Force Personnel and Training Research Center, June, 1957. Confidential. AFPTRC-TN-57-72. VI-6.

Confidential.

Santucci, P. S., & Winokur, G. Brainwashing as a factor in psychiatric illness. A.M.A. Arch. Neurol. Psychiat., 1955, 74, 11-16.

An analysis of POW treatment in Korea from learning theory standpoint.

Sargent, W. Battle for the mind. New York: Doubleday, 1957.

Theoretical analysis attempting to show that physiological factors underlie the breakdown seen in coercive persuasion as well as a variety of other phenomena.

Schein, E. H. Brainwashing and totalitarianism in modern society. World Politics, 1959, 11, 430-442.

Review article of books by Meerloo and Huxley.

Schein, E. H. The Chinese indoctrination program for prisoners of war; a study of attempted "brainwashing." Psychiatry, 1956, 19, 149-172.

Description of Chinese treatment of POWs in Korea, with some inferences as to its psychological effects.

Schein, E. H., et al. Distinguishing characteristics of collaborators and resisters among American prisoners of war. J. abnorm. soc. Psychol., 1957, 55(2), 197-201.

Schein, E. H. Epilogue, something new in history? J. soc. Issues, 1957, 13 (3), 56-60.

Summary of research on POWs and rebuttal of position of Kinkead on POWs Schein, E. H. Interpersonal communication, group solidarity, and social influence. Sociometry, June, 1960.

Theoretical analysis of coercive persuasion from social psychological orientation.

Schein, E. H. Patterns of reactions to severe chronic stress in American Army prisoners of war of the Chinese. In Group for the Advancement of Psychiatry. Methods of forceful indoctrination: Observations and interviews. New York: GAP. Publications Office, July, 1957, GAP Symposium No. 4, pp. 253-269.

Schein, E. H. Reaction patterns to severe, chronic stress in American Army prisoners of war of the Chinese. J. soc. Issues, 1957, 13 (3), 21-30.

Schein, E. H. Some observations on Chinese methods of handling prisoners of war. Publ. Opinion Quart., 1956, 20, 321-327.

Schein, E. H. Some observations on the Chinese indoctrination program for prisoners of war. Washington: Army Medical Service Graduate School, Walter Reed Army Medical Center, Oct., 1955, AMSGS-37-55.

Schein, E. H., Cooley, W. E., & Singer, Margaret. A psychological follow-up of former prisoners of war of the Chinese Communists; Part I. Cambridge, Mass.: Mass. Inst. Tech., March, 1960.

Schein, E. H. with Inge Schneier and Curtis H. Barker. Coercive persuasion: A socio-psychological analysis of "brainwashing" of American prisoners by Chinese Communists. New York: Norton, 1961.

Based on detailed analyses of interviews with civilian prisoners of the Chinese.

Scholmer, J. Vorkuta. New York: Holt, 1955.

Life in a Soviet forced labor camp.

Schwable, F. H. Statement by. . . . Army, Navy, Air Force Register.
Feb. 27, 1954, 75 (3873), 3-5.

A Marine colonel testifies regarding the means employed by the Chinese Communists to extort a false confession from him.

Segal, J. Correlates of collaboration and resistance behavior among U. S. Army POWs in Korea. J. soc. Issues, 1957, 13
(3), 31-40.

Brief version of HumRRO study.

Segal, J. Factors related to the collaboration and resistance behavior of U. S. Army POW's in Korea. Washington: HumRRO, Geo. Wash. Univ. 1956, HumRRO Technical Report 33.

Compares statistically the background and experiences of "participants non-participants, and resisters" among U. S.
POWs in Korea.

Singer, M. T. & Schein, E. H. Projective test responses of prisoners of war following repatriation. Psychiatry, 1958, 21, 375-385.

Results of projective tests conducted on repatriates in Korea.

Steinback, R. A., Gustafson, L. A., & Collier, R. L. Don't trust
the lie detector. Harvard Business Review, Nov.-Dec., 1962
Vol. 40, 127-134.

Strauss, A. Mirrors and masks. Glencoe, Ill.: The Free Press, 1959.

A summary of E. Hunter's Brainwashing in Red China with a socio-psychological interpretation forms a section of this volume on identity.

Strassman, H. D., Thaler, Margaret, & Schein, E. H. A prisoner of war syndrome: Apathy as a reaction to severe stress. Amer.
J. Psychiat., 1956, 112, 998-1003.

Taguiri, R. Differential adjustment to internment camp life. J. soc. Psychol., 1958, 48, 103-109.

Taylor, Ellen M. Communism and the Bible; a dramatic account of what could happen to anyone. New York Exposition, 1958.

The technique of Soviet interrogation; the world today. Catham House Rev. Roy. Inst. Int. Aff., April 1949.

Thorin, D. Ride to Panmunjom. Chicago: Regnery, 1956.

A novel by a decorated former POW in North Korea describing treatment and indoctrination, with philosophical speculations concerning characterological factors in resistance and collaboration.

Tucker, R. Stalin and the uses of psychology. World Politics, 1956, 8, 455-483.

The official adoption in 1950 of the Pavlovian model of personality by the Soviet Union is discussed in terms of Stalin's need to regulate behavior.

Tuddenham, R. D., & McBride, P. D. The yielding experiment from the subject's point of view. J. Pers., 1959, 27, 259-271

"... subject. . . is so much more sharply aware of not going all the way than the amount by which he is indeed moving!"

Tung, S. T. Secret diary from Red China. New York: Bobbs Merrill, 1961.

Tureen, L. L. & Palmer, J. O. Some group differences in personal values between American soldiers and German prisoners of war. J. soc. Psychol., 1955, 42, 305-313.

U. S. Congress, House. Un-American Activities Committee.
Communist psychological warfare: Brainwashing. Washington:
Govt. Print. Off., 1958.

Consultation with Edward Hunter, journalist.

U. S. Congress, Senate. Committee on Government Operations,
Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations. Communist interrogation, indoctrination and exploitation of American military and civilian prisoners. Eighty-fourth Congress, second session, Senate Report No. 2832, Dec. 31, 1956.
Washington: Govt. Print. Off. 1957.

U. S. Congress, Senate. Committee on Government Operations.
Communist interrogation, indoctrination and exploitation of American military and civilian prisoners. Hearings before Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations. Eighty-fourth
Congress, second session, June 19, 20, 26, & 27, 1956.
Washington: Govt. Print. Off., 1956.

Hearings which include testimony by research experts, a former POW, Defense Department officials, and a journalist.

U. S. Congress, Senate. Committee on Government Operations,
Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations. Hearings, June
19, 20, 26, 27, 1956. Washington: Govt. Print. Office, 1956.

U. S. Dept. of the Air Force, Officer Education Research Laboratory.
Bibliography on prisoners of war. Unpublished manuscript, N.D.

U. S. Department of the Air Force, Officer Education Research Laboratory, Communist exploitation of Air Force prisoners of war, Task 77313. Unpublished documents, N.D.

U. S. Dept. of the Army. Communist interrogation, indoctrination and exploitation of prisoners of war. Washington: Govt.
Print. Off., 1956. Army Pamphlet No. 30-101. May, 1956.

A generally good description of Communist methods of POW exploitation focused on methods used in Korea; prepared for guiding personnel on conduct if captured.

U. S. Dept. of the Army. Handling prisoners of war. DA Field Manual, FM 19-40, November, 1952. AGO, DA.

U. S. Department of Defense. POW: The fight continues after the battle. The report of the Secretary of Defense's Advisory Committee on Prisoners of War, Aug., 1955. Washington: Govt. Print. Off., 1955.

U. S. Dept of Health, Education, & Welfare. Effects of malnutrition and other hardships on the mortality and morbidity of former United States prisoners of war and civilian internees of World War II; an appraisal of current information. Washington: Govt. Print. Off., 1956.

Walker, R. L. China under Communism: The first five years. New Haven: Yale Univ. Press, 1955.

Comprehensive survey of Chinese Communism 5 years after the take-over.

Walker, R. L. Psychological control in China under Communism. New Haven: Yale University Press, 1955.

Wallace, Anthony. Human behavior in extreme situations. Nat'l. Acad. Sciences - Nat'l. Res. Coun., Pub. No. 390, Washington, 1956.

Wang, Tsun-ming. Wang Tsun-ming, anti-Communist: An autobiographical account of Chinese Communist thought reform. Washington; Psychological Warfare Division, HumRRD, Geo. Wash. Univ., 1954.

First-hand account by priest of take-over by Chinese Communists.

West, L. J., Biderman, A. D., Farber, I. E. Air Force prisoners of the Chinese Communists. Presented to the Aero-Medical Association, Denver, Colorado, May 6 to 8, 1957.

West, L. J. United States Air Force prisoners of the Chinese Communists. In Group for the Advancement of Psychiatry. Methods of forceful indoctrination: Observations and Interviews. New York: GAP Publications Office, July, 1957, GAP Symposium No. 4. Pp. 270-284.

West, L. J. Psychiatric aspects of training for honorable survival as a prisoner of war. Amer. J. Psychiat., 1958, 115, 329-336.

A psychiatrist's recommendations on how American servicemen should be trained to resist exploitation if captured.

West, L. J., et al. Unclassified bibliography: Prisoners of war, civilian internees, and political prisoners. Unpublished report of the Dept. of Psychiatry and Neurology, Univ. of Okla. Sch. of Med. multilithed, N.D.

A detailed, partially annotated bibliography of captivity since the 18th Century.

What happened in the POW camp. (From official Report of the Advisory Committee on Prisoners of War.) Combat Forces, Vol. 6 (Oct. 1955), pp. 32ff.

Wheaton, J. L. Fact and fancy in sensory deprivation studies. Brooks, Texas: Air University School of Aviation Medicine, August 1959. Review of the literature.

White, W. L. The captives of Korea; an unofficial white paper. New York: Scribner's, 1957.

A journalist compares U. S. treatment of Communist prisoners in Korea with Communist treatment of U. S. prisoners.

Wieder, J. Stalingrad in Mansteins Erinnerung. Frankfurter Hefte, II, 307-327.

Wieder, J. Die Tragodie von Stalingrad-Erinnerungen eines Ueberlebenden. Deggendorf: J. Northraft, 1955.

Wilmot, F. W. The truth about brainwashing. American Mercury 81 (Dec. 1955), 143-146.

Introducing article especially concerned with defense against the technique.

Winance, E. The communist persuasion. Translated by E. A. Lawrence. New York: P. J. Kenedy & Sons, 1959.

Winokur, G. Brainwashing--a social phenomenon of our time. Hum. Organ., 1955, 13(4), 16-18.

Theoretical analysis of treatment of POWs and attempt to show parallels to our own approach to teaching in graduate school.

Winokur, G. The germ warfare statements: A synthesis of a method for the extortion of false confessions. J. nerv. ment. Dis., 1955, 122, 65-72.

Excellent first-hand account in a thought reform university.

Wolff, H. G. Every man has his breaking point. MIL Med., 1960, 2, 85-104.

Same as: Commitment and resistance. In A. D. Biderman & H. Zimmer (Eds.), Special reports of Study SR 177-D. Washington: Bureau of Soc. Sci. Res., Inc., 1959.

An excellent discussion of the role of commitment to ideals in the resistance to "brainwashing."

Yu, F.T.C. The propaganda machine in Communist China--with special reference to ideology, policy, and regulations as of 1952. Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.: Air Force Personnel & Training Research Center, May, 1955. HRRI Research Memorandum No. 37.

A generalized picture of the structural and the functional organization of the Chinese Communist propaganda machine is presented.

Zimmer, H., & Meltzer, M. L. An annotated bibliography of literature pertinent to the interrogation process. Georgetown Univ. Med. Center, Dec. 1957.

DOCUMENT CONTROL DATA - R & D

Security classification of title, body of abstract and indexing annotation must be entered when the overall report is classified

1. ORIGINATING ACTIVITY (Corporate author)		2a. REPORT SECURITY CLASSIFICATION
Bureau of Social Science Research, Inc. 1200 Seventeenth Street, N.W. Washington, D. C. 20036		UNCLASSIFIED
2. REPORT TITLE		2b. GROUP
AN ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHY ON PRISONER INTERROGATION, COMPLIANCE AND RESISTANCE
3. DESCRIPTIVE NOTES (Type of report and inclusive dates)
Scientific Interim
4. AUTHOR'S (First name, middle initial, last name)
Albert D. Eideman
5. REPORT DATE	7a. TOTAL NO. OF PAGES	7b. NO. OF REFS
August 1962	27	209
6a. CONTRACT OR GRANT NO.	9a. ORIGINATOR'S REPORT NUMBER(S)
AF 49(638)-1341
b. PROJECT NO	9b. OTHER REPORT NO(S) (Any other numbers that may be assigned this report)
9779-02
c. 6144501F
d. 681313
10. DISTRIBUTION STATEMENT
Distribution unlimited		1. This document has been approved for public release and sale; its distribution is unlimited.
11. SUPPLEMENTARY NOTES		12. SPONSORING MILITARY ACTIVITY
TECH, OTHER		Air Force Office of Scientific Research 1400 Wilson Boulevard (SRLB) Arlington, Va. 22209
13. ABSTRACT
This bibliography was prepared by the Principal Investigator of this contract in preparation for a special conference on training programs for required captivity behavior. It contains about 200 items in the unclassified literature, mostly commercial publications and professional journals appearing during the decade following the Korean War (1953-1963).

ACROSS	LINK A		LINK B		LINK C
	ROLE	WT	ROLE	WT	ROLE	WT
Bibliography
Prisoner Interrogation
Compliance and Resistance						